Our Brands

We started this business with a mission to build a new Single Malt Scotch Whisky distillery, in Edinburgh.

But the opportunities out there in the drinks world are far too numerous to pass up and, to date, we've launched several drinks under our three current core marques.

Lind & Lime Gin was launched in November 2018. Produced at our distillery in Leith, it is now sold in 26 markets worldwide, and counting.

Lind & Lime Gin

We set out to create the very definition of what a London Dry Gin should be; to do something very simple, but do it to perfection. With juniper at its core, we use fresh lime peel and a hint of pink peppercorns to create a classic, benchmark expression that is balanced, dry and intensely refreshing.

Produced with 100% organic ingredients.
Distilled with 100% clean electricity.
Packaged with 100% plastic free materials.

The Lind & Lime Gin Distillery Tour

We've been to a lot of tours at a lot of distilleries. When it came to creating our own tour, we decided to put all of our favourite things into the single best experience that we could create.

Over the course of 75 minutes:

- Enjoy our signature Gin & Tonic on arrival.
- We will tell you the stories behind the origins of Lind & Lime
- Put in a shift on the capsule spinner on our bottling line as you fill and label your very own 5cl bottle of Lind & Lime.
- Pay attention, take a seat and mix your perfect Gimlet.
- Sip your Gimlet while we tell you a few more stories.
- Taste some more delights in our shop on the way out.

Port Of Leith Distillery Oloroso Sherry

Sherry casks play a very important role in Scotch Whisky production, and that started in Leith. Wine merchants shipped their barrels of sherry into the port and they were decanted into bottles. The local whisky merchants would then take the empty casks to mature their spirits. Before long, they discovered that their customers liked the whisky from the sherry casks.

Our sherry is sourced from Bodegas Baron in Spain. In the future we will use their casks to mature our spirit. So we thought we should enjoy their amazing Oloroso in the meantime.

Port Of Leith Distillery Tawny Port

Martha's Family Estate has been producing exquisite Tawny Port in the Douro Valley since the mid 18th Century. For much of that time, their wines were sold to merchants in Porto to be bottled under other people's brands. We couldn't quite believe our taste-buds when we discovered them. This Reserve Tawny has been matured for 6 to 8 years and retains incredibly pure and vibrant red fruit flavours with a beautiful nutty undertone. It is very delicious indeed.

In the future, we will use casks from Martha's Family Estate to mature some of our Scotch Whisky, so you may find some of these flavours swirling through our Single Malt.

Port Of Leith Distillery White Port

At the Port of Leith Distillery we want to produce outstanding single malt Scotch whisky. To do that, we need to find some very special barrels to mature our whisky.

This White Port is a field blend of Malvasia fina, Viosinho, Gouveio and Donzelinho grapes. The wine is first fermented on its skins for a week before fortification with 1 part grape spirit to 3 parts wine. It is then matured for an average of 3 years in 10,000 litre old oak barrels.

La Garde Écossaise Champagne

La Garde Écossaise is the proprietary Champagne brand of the Leith Export Company. Leith was Scotland's gateway to the world for centuries, and the major entry point for wines and spirits from France. We celebrate that historic trade, and the historic friendship between our two countries with an exemplary wine that provides a local Scottish provenance to one of the most quintessentially French products of them all.

The wine has a classic light yellow colour. On the nose, there are aromas of white fruits like peach and apricot, with a gentle citrus note.

On the palate, the delicate ripe stone fruits are there again, with a hint of green apple and the luxurious brioche character that defines a superlative champagne.
